Navy Fights Plan On Selection of Dulles As Disarmament Adviser

WASHINGTON—A strenuous inter-government battle has been raging behind the scenes over the question of whether or not Allen W. Dulles shall go to London as disarmament adviser to Ambassador Norman Davis.

The State Department is for him, and the Navy Department against.

Dulles has been under heavy fire for some time. He was criticised for advising on war debts while he was—and still is—partner in Sullivan and Cromwell, prominent Wall Street law firm. And he was also attacked for lobbying on oil concessions with his former colleagues at the State Department.

However, Dulles' grandfather, John W. Foster and his uncle, the late Robert Lansing, both were Secretaries of State. So the State Department has stuck with him.

But the Navy Department has not. It has vigorous opposition to his going on naval affairs at London.

Bravery

General Lucius Roy Holbrook is disarmingly frank about his achievements in battle.

One day, according to his own story, he was shopping in a Paris department store. He had been typically American in his purchases, so much so that he merited the attention of the assistant manager. And as a favor to his American customer, the manager took him over to another aisle and introduced him to a distinguished visitor.

It was King Peter of Montenegro.

His Majesty liked General Holbrook, invited him to call at his apartment.

Almost immediately after his arrival next day King Peter reached into a trunk, fished around, pulled out a decoration, fastened it on his guest. Then as an afterthought, he asked:

"What did you say your rank was?"

"Brigadier General."

"Here, give me that back again. That isn't good enough for you."

So his Majesty went back to his trunk, pulled out another decoration. It was the "Silver Medal for Bravery and Cross of Prince Danilo."

General Holbrook has worn it proudly ever since.

Garrison Finish

How an Atlantic seaboard shipping strike was headed-off by the secret efforts of a single man is one of the most interesting reports recently passing across the White House desk.

The man in question is Lloyd Garrison, retiring Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

Several weeks ago the International Seaman's Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, voted a walk-out on October 9, unless ship owners operating from Eastern and Gulf ports met their demands.

Chief of these demands—and the real cause of the uprising—was union recognition.

The situation looked bad. The steamship companies had resisted all attempts at unionization. The ISU has a large and militant membership, and a tie-up of Atlantic ports seemed certain.

Into this unpromising crisis Roosevelt quietly thrust Lloyd Garrison.

He disappeared from his office. A week later, just as unobtrusively, he returned announced briefly there would be no strike.

The real story of brilliant achievement Garrison left untold. What he had done was this:

With the NLRB lacking jurisdiction—because the shipping industry is not under a code—Garrison went to the employers and seamen as a "private citizen." He offered his services as mediator and they accepted.

After a week of secret negotiations under his "unofficial" guidance, an agreement was reached giving the seaman a signal victory. Forty-eight steamship companies, operating 450 vessels, agreed to union recognition and collective bargaining.

EUROPE FEARS NEW UPRISING; SON, 11, RULES

Result of Alexander, Barthou Deaths Feared; Rioting Reported.

QUEEN IS STRICKEN

Trouble in Croatian Towns Ended, Report.

By International News Service

A fearful world today awaited the repercussions of Marseilles' Sarajevo, as France paid homage to the two European strong men assassinated on her soil—King Alexander of Yugoslavia and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou.

Grief-stricken, Alexander's consort, Queen Marie, reached his side as preparations were made to return his bullet-riddled body to Belgrade aboard a warship.

PETER LEAVES SCHOOL

Jugoslavia's new king, eleven-year-old Peter, eldest son of the slain monarch, left his school in the English countryside and prepared to return to his capital to rule under a regency provided in Alexander's will.

From Belgrade, London and Vienna came reports of disturbances in Yugoslavia. Troops were massed to prevent possible invasion and quell revolutionary outbreaks feared as a result of the death of the nation's king and dictator.

The situation in France itself was acute, with new rioting feared there. The government was gravely weakened by the loss of Barthou, outstanding apostle of peace in present-day Europe.

BELGRADE, Oct. 10.—A brief flurry of rioting in several Croatian towns which followed the brutal assassination of King Alexander quieted down today as the nation bowed by official edict to pay homage to its slain monarch.

At Zagreb, birthplace of Petrus Kalemek, the assassin, and at Sarajevo, scene of the murders which precipitated the World war, students staged noisy demonstrations against the slayer and voiced their support of the government. The disorders, which were not considered dangerous because of their patriotic nature, were quickly subdued.

ITALY OBJECT

In various other towns, the rioting took the form of demonstrations against Italy, but consisted for the most part of noisy shouting. The government insisted that the nation as a whole was calm.

The government newspaper Pravda appeared this morning with a heavy black mourning border and appealed to all Yugoslavians, regardless of race, to stand solidly together as one nation in the crisis.

A period of six months national mourning was declared, and a special royal committee named to arrange for the slain monarch's funeral. Cannon salutes throughout the length and breadth of the kingdom informed the nation of the death late last night, and all business was suspended.

It was learned today that last May Thomas Kalemek, brother of the assassin, was sentenced to a two-year penitentiary term for the murder of a Croatian minister named Neudorfer near Zagreb.

Petrus Kalemek, the assassin, also was charged with complicity in the crime but was liberated.

RENICK NEW CHAMP

Tom A. Renick, attorney, is the new pugilistic champion of the Camillus club. Bill Radcliff relinquished his claim to the title last Tuesday noon's meeting and presented Renick with the belt.

And it might be said that Renick earned his title better than Radcliff did his.

ADKINS, JR. NAMED

J. W. Adkins, Jr., has been appointed to defend Thelma Creason, indicted for grand larceny of clothing from the Mack Parrett store.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Miss Florence Hoffman, E. Union-st, principal of the Corwin school, underwent a goiter operation at Grant hospital, Wednesday morning, and was reported doing nicely at press time today. Dr. Crotti performed the operation.

HEISKELL RECEIVER

William D. Heiskell and not William D. Radcliff was named receiver in the suit of the Prudential Insurance Co. against Job E. Stevenson et al in Ross-co courts.

WALISA PAYS LIQUOR FINES

$150 On Each of Two Charges Paid By E. Ohio-St Man; Pays For Gilmore.

Roy Walisa, E. Ohio-st., paid $450 and costs into the treasury Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to two charges of violation of Ohio liquor laws. Three hundred dollars was paid by Walisa, personally, on charges of possession and keeping a dwelling where liquor was kept for sale. The other $150 fine was paid for Albert Gilmore, employee of Walisa, who was charged with selling the fluid to state liquor agents who, with Deputy Bryan Custer, made the arrests.

A term of six months in the county jail for each was suspended.

Walisa paid the fine and costs by check and was released from custody. He had been free on bond since his arrest two weeks ago.

JONES PRESIDING

The hearing was conducted before Judge W. J. Jones, of Vinton-co common pleas court, who was sent here after Judge J. W. Adkins was removed on a prejudice affidavit.

Walisa and Gilmore were represented by Tom A. Renick and Sterling Lamb. They made fervent pleas for a low fine recalling that Walisa provides during the winter for a number of families in his section of the city. He buys coal and food for a number of persons, his attorneys said, and has never caused any officers of the law trouble. The attorneys called Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Bob Armstrong to the witness stand to testify that Walisa had never made them any trouble.

Three state agents testified concerning the possession of the liquor and the sale.

The penalty under the charges brought against Walisa could have been from $100 to $1,000 and days in jail on each.

MANY DELEGATES AT D. U. MEETING

One hundred and fifteen out-of-town members and delegates had registered by noon today at the annual convention of District No. 6 Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War and more were expected during the afternoon session.

The meeting is being held at the Memorial Hall with Catherine Wolfley Hedges tent as hostess. Mrs. L. E. Miller, district president, is in charge.

Business was to be transacted and ritualistic work exemplified this afternoon.

A complete account of the convention will appear in Thursday's Herald.

FRIEDMAN TO OPEN LANCASTER STORE

Edgar H. Friedman, son of Mrs. Pauline Friedman, is preparing to open a new popular-priced dress shop in the Mithoff building, Lancaster.

He expects to open the store in about 10 days.

The Democratic women's club has postponed its meeting called for Friday evening until next Tuesday, Oct. 16, when it will meet with the men's club.

Mr. Adkins has announced a judicial committee of four Democratic attorneys to try to educate the public on the importance of the non-partisan judicial ticket. Former Judge E. A. Brown is chairman and the other members are C. A. Leist, Max C. Seyfert, Jr., and E. L. Crist. Judge Brown spoke briefly Tuesday evening on the judicial ticket.

An interested spectator on the speaker's platform was the wife of Common Pleas Judge Wilbur McKenzies, of Ross-co.

Chairman Adkins almost committed a faux pas in forgetting to introduce Dr. C. E. Bowers, candidate for re-election as coroner. His attention was called to the mistake by A. L. Wilder, candidate for clerk.

Adkins called several persons to the platform including ex-Senator Beckett, of Scioto-twp; Nathan Bohnert, representative; Walter Marion, whom Bohnert defeated four years ago; Mary G. Morris, who is ending her regime as recorder, and John Fundas, prominent Greek organizer.

Invocation was given by Dr. G. J. Troutman, of Trinity Lutheran church, who urged that all aspiring candidates should be fully aware of their obligation to God.

Among the interested Republican spectators were Col. C. E. Groce, C. C. Chapplear, and C. E. "Scout" Roof.

Members of the Pickaway-co Democratic club acted as ushers with Joe Adkins, Jr., as the head usher.

Donahay, Dill and party arrived at just about 8 o'clock. The hall was filled when they arrived. Applause started on the platform where the visitors were first seen and the audience quickly took it up. With Donahay was his good-looking son-in-law, James W. Huffman. No less than four ladies asked the writer who the man sitting to Paul Adkins' right was; it was Huffman.

Leland Pontius, exalted ruler of B. P. O. Elks lodge No. 77, announced today that a 6:30 o'clock dinner and an initiation will take place Thursday evening with a large number of candidates to be taken into the lodge.

The initiatory service begins at 8 o'clock.

The initiation will be the first for the new staff of officers.

Charges Opponent Was Vice President, General Manager, Special Representative of R. L. Dollings Co., Now Defunct; Introduced by Mader Who Urges Friends to Support Mell.

Mell G. Underwood, New Lexington, candidate of the Democratic party for re-election to congress, "hopped on" Renick W. Dunlap, Kingston, his G. O. P. "old guard" opponent, Tuesday evening with an address centered around Dunlap's activities with the now defunct R. L. Dollings Co., of Columbus, which "went up in smoke" with many thousands of dollars obtained mostly from farmers.

Underwood until this week had refrained from attacking his opponent from the rostrum but he asserted Tuesday that Dunlap had "opened the way" on Monday evening with a scathing attack in a New Lexington address. "Now I intend to have a few things to say," Underwood declared. Many of his followers have urged him to take the stump in the manner he followed last night.

INTRODUCED BY MADER

Mr. Underwood was introduced to the large audience at the Democratic meeting by John F. Mader, one of the four men he defeated for the nomination. It has been a long while since this writer has heard a more appropriate introduction than that of Mr. Mader, who said: "To be defeated by a man of Mr. Underwood's caliber is not a disgrace and I intend to

CORN AND HOG PLAN FAVORED BY 46 VOTES

Result of Referendum Surprising To Numerous Leaders of County.

QUESTION 2 BEATEN

Perry-Twp Was Last To Report Outcome.

Pickaway-co farmers favor continuation of the corn-hog reduction program by a margin of only 46 votes, it was learned today when all townships had reported the result of their referendums. The last was Perry-twp.

At noon today the farm bureau had recorded 530 votes, 289 of which favored continuation for another year, and 241 opposing it. On the second question: "Do you favor a one-contract per farm adjustment program dealing with grain and livestock to be in effect in 1936, the vote was 320 no, and 191 yes.

MANY PUZZLED

County political leaders were somewhat puzzled although many said the poll did not mean a thing as far as the New Deal's policies were concerned. The vote in 53 counties reporting to the state today was 11,461 yes on continuation, 8,036 no. The second question was beaten by 3,000 votes.

The ballots cast by farmers participating and not participating in the federal program totaled only about one-third of the corn-hog contracts signed in the county.

The balloting was conducted by the allotment committees in the various townships.

The vote by townships was: CIRCLEVILLE-WASHINGTON

BROWN MOTORCADE PLANNED IN COUNTY

Plans for a motorcade to travel to Chillicothe Thursday evening to participate in the Republican rally at which Clarence J. Brown, candidate for governor, will be the principal speaker, have been announced by the Pickaway-co Republican committee.

A reception has been planned for Mr. and Mrs. Brown with Milton J. Scott in charge. The candidate's party will arrive in Chillicothe at about six o'clock from Gallipolis where Brown will address a gathering in the afternoon.

Delancey Fined $50; Bill Klem Fined, Too

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—Umpire William J. Klem, of the National league, and Catcher William Delancey, of the St. Louis Cardinals, were each fined $50 by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis today for abusive language.

Kiera drew his fire giving Leon (Goose) Goslin, Tiger left fielder, a tongue lashing in the lobby of the Book-Cadillac hotel here Monday night.

The $50 fine levied on Delancey was the outcome of a $200 fine "illegally" levied by Clarence (Brick) Owens, on the Cardinal catcher.

DONAHAY, DILL THRILL DEMOCRATS IN RALLY; UNDERWOOD IS LAUDED

"Honest Vic" Tell Audience "Common Sense, Common Honesty Best Diplomacy, In Pledging Support to Farmer, Business Man and Laborer; Dill Recalls Fess' Vote on Major Issues

Cheers for the administration, for one of the finest party rallies held in this county in the last two years.

The occasion, of course, was the visit of A. Vic Donahay and Clarence C. Dill, one an aspiring senator, the other a retiring member of that august body. Others appeared on the program including Congressman Mell G. Underwood and Carl Smith, secretary to Governor White, who represented Martin L. Davey. Others on the speaker's platform were George G. Adkins, chairman of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee, who presided; members of ladies and men's county organizations, candidates for state and county offices, James W. Huffman, son-in-law of Donahay; former Senator Beckett of Commercial Point; John Fundas, who is organizing Greek Democratic clubs over Ohio; Earl Hanefeld, secretary of agriculture; John Harper, Democratic nominee for state treasurer two years ago; Mr. Thompson, who was conservation commissioner when Donahay was governor, and several others.

CITY GREET'S "CARDINALS"

Dean Brothers, Dizzy's Wife, Draw Most Attention At Reception Today.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—The all-conquering St. Louis Cardinals rode in triumph before thousands of their admirers here today.

Greeted by a crowd of several thousand which jammed Union station, the Cardinals, headed by Manager Frankie Frisch and the great Dean brothers—Dizzy and Paul—arrived from Detroit aboard a special train at 8 a. m.

At 8:20 a. m. they climbed into fourteen automobiles with Mayor Bernard Dickmann, Frisch, President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals, and Vice-President Branch Rickey, riding in the first automobile, and paraded before thousands in downtown streets.

Dizzy, his pretty wife, Patricia, and Paul Dean rode in the second car. Dizzy was wearing a white tropical helmet. (Probably to prevent being hit by another baseball.) Both Dizzy and Paul were holding stuffed Tigers. The crowd yelled "Hold that Tiger."

Dizzy obligingly twisted the tail of the stuffed Tiger to the delight of the crowd.

A cordon of motorcycle policemen rode alongside the Dean automobile which carried a banner reading "Dizzy and Paul," to prevent the crowd from mobbing their heroes with congratulations.

NOAH LEIST, 73, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Former Resident of Walnut-Twp Succumbs Tuesday; Funeral Here Friday.

Noah Leist, aged 73, a resident of Walnut-twp until a year ago, died Tuesday at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus. He was a resident of 1118 E. Rich-st.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. at the Lutheran church here with Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating.

Mr. Leist is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Leist; five sons, Louis, Emmett and John of Columbus, Donald of Circleville, R. D. and Nelson of Cleveland; two brothers, Dr. Charles Leist and J. W. Leist, of Columbus, and two sisters, Miss Diana, of Columbus, and Mrs. Charles Barthelmas, Pleasant-st, this city.

Bricks from Buildings On Post Office Corner Are Offered for Sale

An advertisement announcing the sale of brick is found in today's Herald inserted by Mr. Zeman, representative of the Garland Construction Co., which has charge of razing the present buildings, then constructing the new post office building.

Ten war veterans are now being employed on the task of cleaning the bricks. They are said to be as good as new. If the bricks can be sold, Mr. Zeman says, the work will continue; if not, a steam shovel will probably be used to dump them.

22 MINERS KILLED

SAINTBEL, France, Oct. 10.—At least 22 miners were killed in a mine fire near here today, and another ten also were believed to have lost their lives in the burning pits.

Bodies of the 22 were recovered.

"TOOK" AUDIENCE

Donahay, seen for the first time by many Pickaway countians, really "took" his audience. He was applauded from the time he entered the hall until he left. Only one phrase is needed to describe "Honest Vic" Donahay; that is, "He speaks the language you and I understand."

Donahay started his address by endorsing the candidacy of Martin L. Davey for governor, the remainder of the state ticket, and he paid a great tribute to Congressman Underwood in urging the voters to send him back to congress. "I have confidence in Mell Underwood," Donahay said.

The speaker paid tribute to Senator Fess, his opponent, saying that he respected him very highly. "I just want you to compare the records of Fess and Donahay since 1912," he continued. "I have no promises in this campaign; my record as a representative of the people of Ohio is my platform."

"I believe in progressive principles. Just the other day an Ohio editor asked 'What does Donahay know about diplomacy and foreign affairs?' My answer is nothing, but I do know that the best diplomacy is common sense and common honesty. Then speaking of diplomacy if I had my way about it Europe would start right now to pay back those good American dollars she borrowed."

FOR COMMON PEOPLE

Donahay promised to "honestly" support President Roosevelt in every proper way. "I will support all proper legislation which will

Indiana Man Seeks Information On Show

More information concerning the Pumpkin Show is asked in a letter to The Herald by S. L. McCurdy, of Danville, Indiana, who passed through the city last Saturday.

His letter says: "On last Saturday we passed through your town and saw an immense crowd. Upon inquiry we were told it was your 'Pumpkin Carnival.' Please send me a paper on said carnival that we may learn something about it and how you manage it."

"No Verdict"—Lehman

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—Governor Herbert H. Lehman returned to the capitol shortly before noon today, insisting he had not reached a decision on New Jersey's application for the extradition of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, indicted in that state for the murder and kidnapping of baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

"I will not reach a decision until later in the day, if then," the governor said.

SCHOOLS TO HEAR SAFETY PROGRAM

Mrs. Rose F. Graham, special representative of the governor's safety service commission, sponsored in conjunction with the highway department, will speak in the high school Thursday on "Safety." Friday she is scheduled in the grade schools.

Starting Oct. 22, Mrs. Graham will speak in the rural schools of the county.

Deans to Capitalize on Fame Attained in Series

By PAT ROBISON.

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—The durable Deans—Dizzy and Daffy—who completely dominated the world series, are just bubbling over with newly found ambitions. Let's tune in on them:

Dizzy: "Say, Paul, let's cash in on this."

Daffy: "Sure, I'm willing. How'll we do it?"

Dizzy: "Well, we can play a few exhibition games. Then do some broadcasting. Then tobacco people ought to be willing to pay big dough to get us."

Daffy: "Swell. And how about the movies?"

Dizzy: "Suits me, but I ain't so good looking. How about writing some?"

GO "VODEVILLE"

Daffy: "Ah, you do that. How about vodelville?"

Dizzy: "Me for that. I bet the public would like to see us doing a brother act."

Daffy: "Why not? They have sister acts, don't they?"

Dizzy: "Sure and them, dames ain't famous like us and they drag down plenty sugar every week."

Leo Durocher: "Say, lay off, you guys. You make me nervous talking about all that dough. You talk as if you were going to start a bank."

Frankie Frisch, entering: "Great pitching, Diz, old kid."

Dizzy: "Hell, it was just a breeze against those birds. They shouldn't have won a game. We got lots of clubs in our league better than them."

Daffy: "You said it. That White's just a base on balls hitter."

Dizzy, thoughtfully: "That Gehring's pretty good."

Daffy: "And Goslin ain't bad."

Dizzy: "Yeh, say, did you see that big Greenberg? Didn't he look funny when I fanned him? I had to laugh."

Joe Medwick: "Not so easy for me to laugh though when those nutty fans started heaving things

Marvin Owen

Joe Medwick

Joe Medwick, chased from the game by Commissioner Landis, and Marvin Owen, third sacker of the Tigers, were involved in the most serious fracas to occur at a series game for many years. Fans in the left field stands prevented Medwick from taking his place by throwing a barrage of fruit and bottles onto the field.

my way. I guess all those guys must have brought their lunch to the bleachers. They threw bottles, oranges, apples, bags of peanuts and one guy tosses a hard boiled egg."

Dizzy: "And they call me Dizzy?"

MEDWICK LAMENTS

Medwick: "That guy Owens steps on my foot and there's no play at the bag, so I think maybe the ball's loose some place and he's trying to pin me on the ground, so I try to kick loose and hit him in the chest. Then the judge (Landis) gives me the gate."

(Everybody now shouting at the top of his voice. Backslapping and handshaking all over the place.)

And over in the other dressing room there sits a tired, worn, grieving, battle-scarred lad—Mickey Cochrane. Mickey, who had gambled and lost, Mickey, who had played despite two deep gouges in his legs and a slashed knee-cap. Mickey who had played a psychological hunch in starting young Eldon Auker, only to see psychology and Auker both throw him down.

There sat Mickey with tears in his eyes, head sunk in his hands, beaten, downcast, dejected.

Had he anything to say? "What can I say?" he replied dispiritedly.

"We lost. Just say anything you like for me. Praise the Cards and Frisch and all that sort of thing. You know, the usual stuff."

Marvin Owen, the skinny third baseman who felt the weight of Medwick's foot, refused to discuss the incident. "It's all over now," he said. "No hard feelings."

The game old Goose Goslin, the sage of Salem, N. J., put the whole thing in a nutshell when he said: "It was just a case of too much Dean."

DAVIS INELIGIBLE

George Davis, regular left tackle, is ineligible to take part in the Grandview football game to be staged in that city Friday, it was learned today when grades were announced.

All other gridirers are eligible with several near the 'dead' line.

Birds' Visibility

All birds except owls have eyes placed on each side of the head so that they can look two ways at once. Owls have eyes similar to those of human beings.

Largest Ship Elevator

The largest ship elevator in the world is at Niederflur, Germany, connecting the Havel, Elbe and Oder rivers. Barges arriving at Niederflur must be raised or lowered 120 feet, depending on the direction which they are going.

BIRDS CLINCH MINOR LEAGUE TITLE SERIES

Come From Behind To Defeat Toronto in Final of Nine-Game Series.

The Red Birds today had won their second consecutive little world's series championship by defeating Toronto's Maple Leafs, 13-8, in the ninth of a nine game series.

Toronto had evened the series at four-all in the afternoon behind Gene Scott's splendid hurling by a 5-1 score.

The Birds overcame a lead gained off Ed Greer and Ed Heusser, another right hander, stopped the Canadians.

The Columbusites finished second to the Minneapolis Millers in the association scramble but defeated Donie Bush's team in the playoff for the championship. They then embarked against the Toronto team which won the International league playoff after finishing third in the season's play.

Red Birds who may have played their last game with the Columbus team were Lew Riggs, Charlie Wilson, Billy Myers, Bob Klingner, Gene Moore and Ken O'Dea.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute, 25-cent drug store. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Laughing Around the World

An Unsettling Grief

By IRVIN S. COBB

IF YOU are a Gentile you may lay this story on the Jewish race. If you are Jewish you may, with equal right, say the principal character in it was a temperamental Christian. In the version I heard the hero of the tale was of the Jewish race and answered to the name of Louis.

Louis lost, by a sudden illness, his wife. The funeral was to take place before sundown of the date following the death. On the morning of this day a cousin of the deceased, arriving home after a journey, learned of the loss. At once he hurried to the house of mourning to comfort the bereft husband.

He entered by the crepe-hung front door. There was no one at the front of the house. The sympathetic relative passed on through. The dining-room was empty; the pantry likewise. But in the kitchen the caller found the head of the house. The appearance of the newcomer was in the nature of an interruption and a surprise as well. For, at the moment, the widower was engaged in hugging the hired girl.

"Louis!" exclaimed the shocked interloper. "For you I am ashamed. Here your poor wife, my cousin, she ain't buried yet and already you are acting like this!"

"Go away, Ike!" cried the widower wildly, "how do I know what I am doing in my grief?"

WASHINGTON P. T. A. MEETS; PLANS CARNIVAL OCT. 19

About eighty members and visitors of the Washington-twp Parent - Teachers' association gathered at the Washington-twp school, Tuesday evening, for the organization's monthly meeting at which time plans for a Halloween carnival, Oct. 19, were made.

Mrs. Cliff Reichelderfer, president, presided at the business session and appointed the following chairmen and committees in charge of the carnival:

Mrs. Harry Rife and Miss Mary Rader, fortune telling; Miss Selena Adams, Miss Ruth Delong, fish pond; Wendell Boyer, bingo; Harry Rife, guessing contests; Loren Strait, shooting gallery; Carl Bennett, stunts and masquerade, prizes in the latter will be given the prettiest costume and best character, both children and adults. Refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. D. A. Marshall.

There will also be a fancy work, cookie and apple display in charge of Misses Edith Spangler and Nellie Kuhn. Ribbons will be given the best crocheted and embroidered pillow cases, cushion tops, aprons, vanity and buffet sets, scarfs and hand towels; for plain, filled, oatmeal and nut cookies.

The program at last night's meeting was in charge of the teachers, under the chairmanship of Wendell Boyer, and consisted of the following:

Numbers by a toy orchestra including first, second and third grades; harmonica duet by the Richard twins; contests in charge of Misses Edith Spangler and Nellie Kuhn; talk by Marion Senenbrenner; trio, Eileen Brown, Evelyn Richard and Margaret List; piano solo by Miss Selena Adams.

Refreshments were served under the chairmanship of Mrs. D. A. Marshall.

WESTMINSTER BIBLE CLASS MEETS AT HASWELL HOME

The October meeting of the Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Edith Haswell, Watt-st.

Assisting hostesses were Miss Ethel Kiger and Mrs. Donald H. Watt. About twenty members enjoyed the evening.

Miss Florence Dunton, president, presided during the business transactions. Plans were made for the part the Bible class would take in the Loyalty campaign being sponsored by the church.

The program included interesting contests in charge of Mrs. Watt and a short story from the American magazine read by Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier, class teacher.

Delectable refreshments were served during a social hour by the hostesses.

Mrs. Charles Smith was appointed chairman of the hostess committee for the November meeting.

FOUR PICKAWAY COUNTIANS AT OHIO WESLEYAN SCHOOL

Questions and Answers

Please suggest a list of dishes using milk and eggs. I have them available and would like some ideas.

A good recipe book should be a source of great interest for you, because of the recipe suggestions that it will offer. The general uses of milk and eggs may be listed thus: in main dishes such as omelets and other fancy egg dishes, in desserts, in cakes and cake frostings, in salads, sauces, and salad dressings, in hot or chilled beverages and in baked foods such as muffins, waffles, and the like. If you are interested in recipes for main dishes, send in your question again and you will receive a personal reply.

What is the chief value of bran?

Bran is the coarse outer portions of cereals and supplies roughage in the diet. Cereal bran, especially whole grain cereal, affords fuel value, minerals, vitamin B and cellulose.

Can the same syrup be used for spicing peaches as is used for making sweet pickled peaches?

Pears and peaches may be pickled in the vinegar syrup. A ginger syrup for peaches is not favored because the flavors do not blend well enough, but with the pears, the ginger is very well liked as an addition to the vinegar syrup.

What type of diet is recommended for weight reduction?

As a rule a low fat and carbohydrate diet is recommended to reduce weight. A person who is very much overweight should reduce only on the advice of a physician. First find out what the normal weight for your height, sex, and occupation should be, then find out what number of calories are normally needed to maintain that weight. The food intake must be reduced below the daily calorie requirement for the desired weight. Loss of weight of more than 2 pounds a week is not advisable.

A New Cake For Harvest Time

A new spice cake made with pumpkin has a delicious moist crumb that will delight you.

1/2 C. butter 1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 C. sugar 2 tsp. cinnamon
1 egg 1 tsp. cloves
1 C. pumpkin (canned) 1/2 tsp. nutmeg

1/2 C. evaporated milk 1/4 tsp. salt
2 C. cake flour 1/4 C. chopped nuts
2 C. raisins

Cream butter and gradually add sugar. Add egg and pumpkin, and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together. Add alternately with milk to first mixture, and fold in nuts and raisins. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven. Frost with a sea foam frosting. In one large loaf, the cake will require 50 minutes at 375 degrees for baking.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. GIVEN

Members of her two table bridge club were guests of Mrs. Bishop Given, S. Court-st., Tuesday evening.

At the conclusion of the contract game a delicious lunch was served at the small tables. Miss Helen Hitler was awarded high score trophy in the game.

Miss Hitler will be hostess to the club next week at her home on W. Mound-st.

YO YO SEWING CLUB ENTERTAINED TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon members of the Yo Yo sewing club were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Effie Albright, Watt-st.

Lunch was served at the close of the happy hours spent in sewing. Mrs. Leona Hedges, of Tarlton, a sister of the hostess, was a guest of the club.

Mrs. Jennie Steele, S. Court-st., will entertain the club in two weeks.

Robert E. Norris, Circleville-twp, left Tuesday for Adrian, Mich., where he will visit his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Boardman. He will also visit in Detroit and at the Century of Progress in Chicago before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grand-Girard and children, Stanley Jr., Marjorie and Joan, of Sharon, Pa., have returned to their home after a visit with the former's father, George F. Grand-Girard, and aunt, Miss Kate Grand-Girard, N. Washington-st.

Joe Norris, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Norris, Washington-twp., is recovering after an appendicitis operation, Saturday, at St. Francis hospital, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Wray Henry, N. Court-st., left Tuesday for Sterling, Kansas. They were called to the home of Mr. Henry's mother, Mrs. Mary Henry, who was seriously hurt, recently, when she fell.

Tiny

The smallest bird in the world is the Calypso's humming-bird, found only in Cuba. It is less than two inches from end of beak to the tip of its tail, and it is so light it can hardly be felt when held on the hand. In fact, the humming-bird-moth we see around flowers in the evening is larger and heavier than this bird.

The Age-Old Pastime

ALTHOUGH in the downtown districts of our cities the sidewalks are still crowded with pedestrians, it is probably true that walking has become an obsolete pastime in America. The rushing in and out of stores in the shopping districts isn't walking anyway, in the opinion of lovers of that form of physical exercise.

We have lost the feeling of leisure which in former days was so conducive to walking. Even in our motoring we seem to be possessed of the idea that we must hurry to get somewhere, although we may have no particular destination in mind. An Englishman who even during his visit to this country spent much time in walking said of us that the pictures in periodicals representing the occupants of automobiles reclining in luxury and enjoying magnificent scenery did not depict us truly. That is not the way we cover the miles.

He was greatly amused over the fact that during his walking tours he was frequently offered rides by motorists; "they do not seem to understand," he says, "that a man on a walking tour is not in need of vehicular conveyance. They act as if the best thing about walking is giving it up and having a ride."

Consequently the automobile does not permit of sauntering. When the road is good there comes the irresistible impulse to make the most of it, which to nearly all drivers means anywhere from 35 to 60 miles an hour. And consequently there is lacking the opportunity for quiet enjoyment of the passing landscapes; and lacking too is the inducement for reflection and restful meditation which walking, either by one's self or with agreeable companions, makes almost inevitable. In its own way motoring has its pleasures, and one whole that we miss less than those of walking. And perhaps in the stress of modern life it is only natural that we should have taken to the thrill-producing form of exercise.

Some college professors are secure in their jobs and others flunk the dumb ones.

United States Out

A new conciliation commission is to be created by the League of Nations in a fresh attempt to end the Chaco war between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Reports from Washington indicate that the United States will remain aloof from the movement, at least for the present. This was the policy outlined by the secretary of state, Mr. Hull, in commenting on reports from Geneva that the United States might be invited to join the latest peace move. He explained that the United States would be glad to cooperate with any peace attempt when, in its own judgment, such cooperation would prove helpful.

The Washington government has gone so far in its efforts to end the hostilities as to prohibit the shipment of munitions to the belligerents. It has sought in other ways to stop the conflict. Its efforts were unfruitful, just as was the original attempt made by the league. The latter sent a special commission to the war zone to make an investigation and report its findings. This was done but without ending the war.

It is very doubtful if its new move will prove to be any more successful. The two warring nations seem determined to fight it out to a finish. Despite reported large losses in men killed, wounded and captured and despite the heavy financial drain, neither nation has shown any evidence of a weakening purpose.

It seems probable that no peace move can prove hopeful at least until one or the other of the warring powers begins to feel the effect of the struggle to a much greater extent than now is the case.

The league has pursued its usually timid course in trying to end the conflict. This has proved a further blow to its prestige.

There is no valid reason why the United States should join it in its latest peace effort, which is so totally devoid of promising results.

"DEATH SONG"
by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

SYNOPSIS

Seifert Vail, the most unopposed patient at exclusive Sherwood Forest Sanatorium, is murdered. Two wounds are found on the body; one apparently from a sharp weapon and the other, from a dull, rusty instrument. Dr. John Calvert and Mark Hillier, playwright and patient, agree the wounds could have been caused by a pair of scissors. Felipe, the maid, discovered the body when she went into Vail's room to turn off the phonograph. Vail, a former opera singer, broken-hearted over the death of his wife, had a habit of repeatedly playing the record "Waiting For You" sung by himself. Dr. Calvert claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Vail shared a cottage with Willis Clendenning, Milton Cross and James Ruxton. Ruxton's nephew, Loren, and Dr. Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Paraday, Mark's nurse. Ruxton had changed rooms with Vail the day before the crime because the former's room had a private entrance and Vail expected a visitor he wanted to receive secretly. A letter the victim received from New York is missing. Sheriff Finn asks Felipe how she knew Vail had been murdered when he had been covered and the wounds were not visible. She appears to be hiding something and, next morning, disappears. Clendenning claims he saw a piece of paper under the clock on Felipe's table, but no trace can be found of it. Mark, Bob Fowler his secretary, and Sue are discussing the case when Loren arrives.

CHAPTER XIV

"Well, well," said Mark. "A neat vanishing act." He grinned at Loren. "Going to miss her, Loren?" "Now, don't put ideas into Sue's head," he protested. "You know why I used to talk to her, Sue."

Sue nodded. "Because she was homesick and liked to talk Spanish with you." She smiled at him very innocently and added, "Of course, if she hadn't been pretty, you might not have taken the trouble."

"Meow," said Loren. Suddenly he became thoughtful. "Say! That's where she's gone—back to Mexico! She always talked about going back some day, and I'll bet you that's where she headed for when she skipped out of here."

"Maybe," I said, "but the important thing is, why did she go?"

"Why, indeed?" said Mark. "That's the interesting question."

He turned to Loren, smiling. "Le gusta a usted Felipe?" he asked. Loren laughed. "Clara, no," he said. "Se usa hembras formidables!"

"You speak Spanish fluently," Mark observed. "Lo aprendió en 'No, en Cuba.'"

"Is that polite?" Sue interrupted. "Mr. Fowler and I don't speak Spanish."

"It wasn't important in any language," Mark answered. "Spain is my favorite country, next to Broadway, but I find that I can't talk about it with Loren. He hasn't been nearer it than Cuba. And he tells me Felipe is formidable, which is high praise. Maybe it's as well for you she disappeared, Sue. And, he added, turning back to Loren, 'speaking of disappearances, where were you when all the excitement was going on yesterday?'"

"I missed it all," Loren answered regretfully. "I went to the village after rest hour to have some films developed, and I didn't even know Vail had been murdered until I got back just before dinner."

"I hope you can prove where you were during rest period," Mark said. "If the sheriff doesn't begin his favorite prying around looking for people without alibi. Now, if you had a pair of legs like mine, you wouldn't have to worry."

Loren shot a quick glance at Sue. Then he answered lightly:

"I know gentlemen are always supposed to get themselves in trouble protecting the fair name of women—in detective stories, at least. But if necessary I'm going to drag Sue's name in the mud. Do you mind, Sue?"

She smiled at him, but it seemed to me that her smile was strained. "I don't mind a bit."

"Well, Sue and I were taking a walk in the woods," Loren said. "We've got photographs to prove it, too, haven't we?"

She nodded, and Mark said, "If you'd been near Lakeside, you might have seen something interesting."

"We were near Lakeside!" Sue said. "We were around the lake all the time, weren't we, Loren?"

"Yes," Loren answered. "Why, I even took a snapshot of Lakeside Cottage, just before Sue came."

"What time was that?" Mark asked quickly.

"Oh, it must have been a good while before the murder. A little after two, I imagine."

"You didn't see anything unusual around the cottage, did you?" Loren looked thoughtful. He seemed to be trying to visualize the cottage as he had seen it. "No," he said slowly. "If I'd seen anything out of the ordinary, I'd have remembered it."

Mark sighed. "It's too bad you didn't keep your eye on the place. You might have saved the sheriff a lot of trouble."

Sue stood up suddenly. "I'm going for your mail, Mr. Hillier," she said in a low voice. She started for the door, keeping her eyes straight ahead.

"I'll walk to the office with you, Sue," Loren said. "See you soon, Mark."

The girl did not answer him. He followed her out the door as we said good-bye. Mark, without moving his head, cocked his right eyebrow at me and looked up with a sly grin. He said softly:

"I hope our juvenile lead thinks up a better story than that for the sheriff. He saw my look of surprise and added, 'He decided he needed an alibi so badly that he invented one, and if I know Sue, he's getting fits now. . . I wonder why he wanted an alibi. I wonder how you know he invented it?'"

"Bob," said Mark, "you're a perfectly straight man; you always feed me the right questions. But you're a heck of a detective. Do you remember asking where Sue was when you visited me yesterday afternoon?"

"Yes, now that you mention it," Loren said. "But you've forgotten what I told you." Mark wagged his finger at me. "A detective never forgets. I told you she went out at five minutes of three."

"Well?"

"Lord, you don't even remember things two minutes! Didn't you hear Loren say just now that he took a photograph of Lakeside Cottage a little after two o'clock, a few minutes before Sue arrived? One of those statements is wrong, because Sue couldn't have met him before he came."

"That's so!" I exclaimed. "Say, Mark. You said I never remember anything. Well, listen to this. On the night of the dance, I saw Loren talking to Vail outside the dining room, and I saw something passed between them—something made of metal. It caught the light from the window."

"Interesting," he answered calmly. "What do you think it was?"

"It might have been the revolver they found in Vail's room," I said. "Maybe Loren got it for Vail, and that's why he wants to keep out of the investigation."

Mark seemed very unimpressed. "I'd certainly never have suspected Loren," I said.

"Oh, he isn't the only one," Mark said. "Now, there's Clendenning. He's got quite a talent for seeing disappearing papers, hasn't he? There was the letter Vail was supposed to have received from New York, and then the paper, or note, or whatever it was that disappeared from the table in Felipe's room this morning."

"You don't believe he saw it?" I asked.

"I don't say he didn't, and I don't say he did. I observe merely in the judicial manner of your genuine detective that he's a very sharp-eyed lad to see so many things no one else sees. Now, supposing there was a note on the table, how do you think it disappeared?"

"When we went into the room the screen was raised," I answered. "So you assume that someone came along, reached through the window and swiped it. Well, I can think of an easier, not to say more obvious, way than that. Dr. Calvert entered the room alone, didn't he?"

"Oh, surely you don't suspect him, too? Why should he steal it?" Mark looked at me through narrowed eyes. "I'm not saying he did. I'm only saying that if there was a note, it could have been stolen more easily by John Calvert than by anyone sneaking around in the bushes. He could just put it in his pocket and deny it was there when he came in."

I had never liked Dr. Calvert very warmly, but I experienced a dull feeling of disappointment and disillusionment as I considered this theory and remembered Felipe's fear of the doctor. First Loren had lied to create an alibi. Now Mark was destroying my confidence in John Calvert. It seemed that I could trust no one.

"I thought you were Calvert's friend," I said irritably.

"But I can't allow sentiment to interfere with the machine-like and inexorable precision of my mind."

"What are you going to do, then? Advise Finn to search him?" Mark smiled at me, and there was no trace of mockery in his expression. "No. I'm not going to do anything about it. I'm sure a good friend of John's that if I find out he's exterminated the snake, I'll let him know. I'm not even going to let you know. Give me a cigarette, will you?"

He became absorbed in blowing smoke rings, but there was too much breeze and presently he stopped. "I'm thinking about Felipe," he said. "She didn't seem very bright to you, did she?"

"No. Look at the hole in her story—how she knew Vail was dead without touching him."

"That doesn't necessarily prove she wasn't bright. We always overlook the obvious when we lie, as witness Loren, who's bright enough for all practical purposes. That only proves that she expected Vail to be murdered. Perhaps she heard him quarreling with someone, or heard him threatened."

"And when she saw he was dead, that flashed into her mind," I said. Mark barely nodded. He went on, "If that's true, she may have been fearful that she was next on the murderer's list. If she'd been questioned privately and handled a little more gently, she might have told. But she wanted to keep out of the mess, and the sheriff frightened her."

"If that's why she ran away, perhaps she left a note behind putting the finger on someone."

"Don't you see where that leads you?" I cried. "Right to Calvert! If he stole the note, it must have incriminated him."

"Or someone he wanted to protect, assuming that there was a note and that someone didn't reach through the window and snatch it. Mark amended. "Anyway, we'll never see that note, if there was one. Whoever took it has certainly had time to destroy it by now. Maybe the sheriff will find Felipe, though."

Neglect the Danger in Disease

Particularly When a Vital Organ, Like Liver, Is Affected

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

I KNOW a medical man who has practiced a great many years. Always he has been interested in the study of the liver. The expert maintains that despite the vast and growing knowledge of this important organ, it still holds many secrets.

The liver is one of the largest organs in the body, located in the upper right side of the abdomen. It fills up the dome of the diaphragm, the muscular membrane separating the abdominal cavity from the chest. Nestling beneath the liver are several abdominal organs, the right kidney, the large intestine, part of the small intestine and the stomach.

The average weight of this organ is over three pounds, varying according to the size of the person. In proportion it is larger in infants and children, but diminishes in size as the child matures. It is a thick structure, measuring over five inches in thickness on the right side, but on the left it is thinner, where the gland tapers down to a sharp edge.

Facts About the Liver
At present we know of three important accomplishments of the liver. It is probable, however, that an organ through which the entire blood of the body travels is intimately related to many unknown body functions.

The liver changes the waste substances of the used-up tissues of the body carried to it by the blood. It converts them into certain chemicals, such as urea and uric acid. These are ultimately excreted by the kidneys.

One function of the liver is the formation of bile. This substance is poured into the intestine in large amounts when food is consumed. It aids in digestion and promotes absorption of nutritive substances derived from food.

In addition to forming bile, the liver is believed to aid in the manufacture of red blood cells. Also it helps to produce hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood, and fibrinogen, an important blood element necessary for blood clotting.

When Extra Energy Is Needed
Perhaps the greatest importance of the liver lies in its "glycogenic function." This discovery was made by Claude Bernard. When sugar formed by foods is carried to the liver it is stored in the form of glycogen or animal starch.

Whenever it is needed by the body, this is readily converted into sugar. Increased activity, exertion or exercise necessitates the use of more sugar than is needed under normal conditions. This increased demand is met by the liver. It converts the glycogen into sugar which is carried to the muscles and other active parts of the body.

Like other organs, the liver is frequently attacked by certain disorders and infectious diseases. Neglect of liver trouble is dangerous. It is a vital organ and if diseased leads to serious disturbances of the body.

MOVIES

BARN DANCE COMING

The man who fools the barnyard animals and makes a canary ashamed of its song, will bring a multitude of sound imitations along with his dry humor to the Cliftona, Thursday in the person of Max Terhune who fascinates radio fans of WLS.

As a radio personality, he is well known, but he also figured as a bright spot in one of vaudeville's biggest acts for some time, as a member of "Weaver Brothers and Elvira" troupe, he received enthusiastic reviews wherever he made his appearance, both in Canada and America, from coast to coast.

He is perhaps the most versatile entertainer on the air, listing as just a few of his accomplishments, imitations of barnyard animals, birds, fowl, musical instruments, machines, trains, and in addition is a ventriloquist of no mean ability. His type of act is only after years of rehearsing and difficult cultivation.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Gay Paris, the landing of Lindbergh, the Artists' Colony celebrating its bizarre masquerade ball in the Latin Quarter, vivid glimpses into a great Paris fashion salon, its beautiful mannequins displaying the very latest work in Parisian finery, and gay night spots on the boulevards all figure in a hilarious cross-section of life in the American colony in Paris in "Paris Interlude," film transcription of the New York stage hit, "All Good Americans." The picture comes Thursday and Friday to the Cliftona Theatre.

Filmed on a lavish scale by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and directed by Edwin L. Marin, the new photoplay is a blend of romance, drama and hilarity, the hilarity being predominant. It deals with the goings-on of newspaper people, a girl fashion writer, an illustrator and others in Paris; shows the "inside" of the profession of fashion-designing as practiced in the world fashion center; and takes the audience on a personally conducted tour of the gay night spots.

An Excellent Cast

Madge Evans, Otto Kruger, Robert Young and Anna Merkel head the cast, and come in interesting roles. Ted Healy, Edward Brophy and Bert Roach, George Meeker, Louise Henry and Richard Tucker have supporting roles.

AT THE GRAND

Ginger Rogers has shoved off on a new screen career. She's been in lots of pictures, and isn't new to the screen. But the young lady is now playing a different type of role, and has banned musicals if she can help it.

She's a real actress now, and with "Upper World," the Warner Bros. production, now showing at the Grand Theatre, she starts what she terms her "real career," playing opposite Warren William in the smashing drama by Ben Hecht.

Marian Martin Pattern

PATTERN 9172

Little girls nowadays seem to know much more about the styling of their clothes than did the young lady of yesterday. Here is a frock which is sure to please them. They'll just love its convenient coat-like closing which is not only chic but so simple to fasten, it will certainly help them get to school on time. Even six-year old Mary's chubby fingers can fasten those big buttons. The belt starts at either side of the panel, and ties in back and the puffed sleeves are perky and becoming. The pointed yoke in the back gives that "back interest" so talked about this season. The cunning gumpie may be changed at will.

Pattern 9172 may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 requires 1 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric and 3/4 yard 36 inch contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

THE FALL AND WINTER ISSUE OF THE MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK is now off the press. It is big fashion news . . . filled with stunning and easy-to-make patterns for street and house dresses, blouses, skirts, lingerie, sports clothes . . . all the essentials of a smart outfit for matron, maiden or little child. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Herald Pattern Department, 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NOTES

The first grade made leaf fairies in art on Monday, the best drawings were placed on the bulletin board.

Friday the blocks of our Health Chart were filled in. For every boy and girl who had remembered to bring a handkerchief for two weeks, a red block was placed by his name, for those who had remembered for seven or eight days a yellow block, for one week a Blue block.

Several boys and girls were excused for the Pumpkin Show.

The second grade children have started a health crusade. They have gold stars put beside their names for keeping clean.

The second grade has three work books: Arithmetic, Health and Language.

In grade four the boys and girls have been dramatizing the story, "Rumpelstiltskin" from their reader.

Viola Ward, Celesta Tustin, Ben Ray, and Paul Pettibone are monitors for this week.

In reading we are keeping a chart to record the reading speed and understanding of all the members of our fourth grade.

Our group is enjoying the use of new work books in both English and arithmetic.

The fifth grade is making a miniature fort. It's to represent the settlement of Jamestown.

Elmina Morrison, Esther Smith, Irene Smith and John Chamberlain had charge of opening exercises in grade six last week.

June Snyder described the city of Sarasota, Fla., and told us the early history of the settlement during History club last week.

The following eighth grade pupils have been neither absent nor tardy since school began last September: Sarah Brobst, Mary M. Carley, Helen Kibbie, Isabelle Scoles, Virgie L. Six and Ralph Myers.

The Ashville high school speedball team added another victory to its credit by defeating Mt. Sterling 25-15 at Mt. Sterling last Friday.

Ashville took the lead immediately after the kick off and retained it the entire game. The first quarter ended 13-0 in favor of Ashville. At the beginning of the second quarter, Ashville's entire second team was inserted and remained in until the end of the third quarter, after which the first team again entered the game.

This week Ashville plays host to the Mt. Sterling team. The game will start promptly at 3:30. No admission charged.

We were more than pleased to win first prize on our Pumpkin Show exhibit last week at Circleville.

Our teachers are now 100 per cent in O. S. T. A. membership.

Grass on Mountain Peaks

Many of the higher peaks in the Great Smoky mountains are bare of timber but covered with heavy, meadow-like grass at their summits.

SUSPECTS TRIP TO JERSEY IS NEARING

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Lindbergh kidnaping case—the most publicized crime in American criminal history—moved rapidly toward a denouement today.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York in all probability will sign the extradition papers some time today which will enable the state of New Jersey to put Bruno Richard Hauptmann, sullen Bronx carpenter, on trial for the murder of the famous aviator's infant son.

Scheduled to return to his desk in the executive mansion at Albany before noon, the governor had a bulky portfolio of official extradition papers to look through before taking the action which many believe will start Hauptmann on the way to the electric chair.

SIGNED BY MOORE

The document of greatest importance—the requisition—was signed by Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey.

While it is possible that Governor Lehman may decide to grant a hearing in the case—which might delay matters for several days—the fact remained that no such hearing has as yet been asked by Hauptmann's counsel.

Moreover it was not at all certain that any such request would be made. The suspect's attorney, James M. Fawcett, was asked by International News Service whether he intended to get in touch with Governor Lehman. Fawcett replied:

"I don't know whether that's necessary."

Fawcett displayed only mild interest when he was advised that Governor Lehman had taken the extradition papers to Albany. In spite of this it was evident the prisoner's counsel planned to put up a bitter fight against extradition. This will be fought out in the courts, however, and need not involve the state's chief executive.

Jury Indicts as Flyer Testifies

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is shown, center, as he arrived at Flemington, N. J., to testify before the Hunterdon county grand jury in its probe of charges against Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. The jury later indicted Hauptmann on murder charges. Lindbergh was accompanied to the courthouse by Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, left, head of New Jersey police.

With the Bronx extortion trial, originally set for tomorrow, postponed in favor of New Jersey's claim to the prisoner, Fawcett has been concentrating his energies on the Hopewell phase of the case.

He spent the day in Trenton, where he received permission from Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the state police, to make photostatic copies of the Lindbergh ransom notes.

Handwriting experts engaged by the prosecution have declared that these notes were written by Hauptmann beyond any semblance of doubt. Fawcett plans to have them scrutinized by his own handwriting expert, Aaron R. Lewis.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

ACTORS have a great life. Some of the best of it comes in talking it all over together. These folks have ups and downs about as much as any people in the world, I reckon, but they hardly ever cry about it. One of them maybe has his name in big lights this week, and next month he's imitating a thunderstorm off in the wings somewhere.

He gets just as much fun out of talking it over as he ever did, though.

Two actors were talking, in a little restaurant in New York, about this year's shows and last year's shows. They found out that it was awful hard to remember what the shows of last year were. Even an actor forgets them that quick.

"Well," said one of them, "what I'm talking about is the show last year that didn't have any bed in it. You remember—"

"No," says the other one, "I don't think I do. No bed in it. That must have been the Miracle!"

DONAHEY

benefit the farmer, business man or laborer," he stated.

The speaker then went on to score what he called the nation's "Frankenstein" taxation system where everything except the air and water are taxed. He favored a graduated income tax based upon ability to pay.

"If you elect me to the United States senate I will be as free as the four winds that blow. No politician, no private interest owns a hair of my head. I will use my vote and my voice on the floor of the senate to fight all graft, greed and incompetency in government," he said in closing.

Senator Dill, who retires this year after serving 20 years in the national house and senate from Republican Washington, told his listeners after his introduction that his address was the first one he had made on politics in Ohio in 28 years when he stumped while at Ohio Wesleyan for Governor Patterson. Dill is a native of Knox-co where his parents still reside.

"I came here tonight to satisfy a desire of mine; to find out why the people of Ohio so love Vic Donahey," he asserted in opening his talk. "I have learned that answer. I've always been taught that no man is famous until he is called by his constituents by his first name. You people call Donahey by two first names. One of them, 'Vic,' his mother gave him; the addition, 'Honest,' you people gave him for the splendid work he has done for Ohio."

TRIBUTE TO UNDERWOOD
"I, too, want to pay tribute to Mell Underwood who is one of the standbys of the administration in the house of representatives. He has gained prestige in the house where he is regarded as a seasoned congressman. There is a saying that if a man gets into congress once it might have been luck that put him there, but if he goes back the second time it is not luck but ability that put him there. I urge you to send Mell Underwood back to congress," he said. "Mell is on the side of the president and the people and you can't afford to quit on a man when he is in the middle of his work as you would be doing to President Roosevelt if you sent Underwood's opponent to congress."

Dill implored his listeners to avoid a stalemate which would exist for at least two years if a hostile congress replaced the present one. "President Roosevelt has work to do and unless you give him a favorable congress all his efforts to go somewhere would go for naught."

"I went over to Mount Vernon Monday evening," Senator Dill went on, "to hear Fess and to learn what he is advocating. There was only one word he used all evening in an effort to throw fear into the hearts of his audience and that was 'revolution'. He's right there was a revolution but it was back in 1832 and it was a revolution of ballots. I fear if the revolution of ballots had not taken place then there might have been a revolution of bullets."

"REVOLUTIONS, SURE"
"Too, there was a revolution in the banking industry and was it needed—There is a revolution going on in the stock exchange where regulation of the wildcat gambling is not being attempted, there is a revolution going on in farming with prices paid to farmers going up to a living price. Surely we are going forward."

Senator Dill next delved into the record of Dr. Fess, whom he termed one of the original "brain trusters" naming Dr. Andy Mellon as the other although they were called "better minds" at that time. Going into the congressional record he found that Fess had voted "no" on all of the following important measures:

Public works, passed 55-17.
Farm relief, passed 64-39.
Gold embargo, passed 48-20.
Home loan act, passed 48-21.
Silver purchase, passed 64-25.

Securities act, passed 65-13.

Muscle Shoals bill to permit the government to set up a system of distribution of power from this plant to consumers in the south, passed 68-20. Dill was on a favorite subject discussing power rates and the asserted "Power Trust" away from which Roosevelt is taking the nation, according to his statement. "I'd love to make a speech on electricity," Dill said. "Out in our state we are gradually pulling out of the clutches of the 'power trust' and we are going to be able to heat our homes for $100 a year. This is one of President Roosevelt's accomplishments."

"WHAT OF DONAHEY?"

He asked "How would Vic Donahey have voted on these issues?" "We need people in Washington who will represent the people who send them there rather than the people they meet after they arrived there," he said.

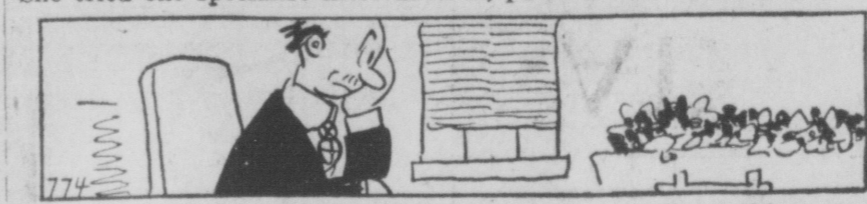

Music for the evening was provided by the high school band which played in the uptown streets prior to the meeting. The audience led by Carl C. Leist with Mrs. Ervin Leist at the piano sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

A Growing Suspicion

By IRVIN S. COBB

FOR years Mrs. Grauman, wife of a wealthy retired shirt-waist manufacturer, had been ailing. Or anyhow, she thought she was ailing. She tried one specialist after another, patronized a succession of sanitariums, took the cure here, there and elsewhere. Yet nothing seemed to help her. She remained a chronic complainer.

The husband's patience sorely was tested. Also there was a constant drain upon his checkbook. Mr. Grauman didn't mind the latter so much. Always he had been a generous provider for his family. What secretly irked him was a conviction that the lady's trouble was more or less imaginary; an unspoken but none-the-less sincere belief that his money was being spent to gratify a neurotic's whim. Had Mr. Grauman known the words "malingering" and "hypochondriac" these undoubtedly were the words he would have applied to his own private diagnosis of the case.

Nevertheless, the invalid, after long months of treatment, succumbed to her mysterious malady. She became no more.

On the night before the funeral the mourning widower sat alone by the bier. For long hours he communed with himself. Finally he reached forth a caressing hand and softly patted the casket.

"Well," he said, "maybe Mommer was sick!"

Underwood Flays Dunlap

support him and I want every one of my friends to do the same." His introduction brought resounding applause from the audience. Underwood charged that "Dunlap, formerly a vice president, general manager and special representative of the Dollings Company was 'a peddler of worthless stocks and bonds' and is now pursuing the same unfair, malicious, and untruthful tactics that he followed as a promoter in an effort to deceive the people."

DELEGATES WELCOMED

The Chamber of Commerce issued a welcome today to delegates attending the Daughters of Union Veterans convention here.

Glowworm Called Anesthetic

The lowly glowworm is hailed as the first anesthetic. It paralyzes its victims by stinging them and if it does not devour them, they recover with no apparent ill effects, much the same as a human does from an anesthetic.

ious, and untruthful tactics that he followed as a promoter in an effort to deceive the people."

"Who is Dunlap?" asked Underwood. "The records in the Securities division of Ohio show that he was one of the financial buzzards and worthless stock racketeers who preyed upon innocent victims by selling them worthless stocks and securities in wild cat promotion schemes, that he knew were fakes."

"Today, we find 'Good Old Renick,' who made unholy profits and fat commissions as a 'Brain Trust' for the Dollings Company, using the same tactics to sell himself to the voters of the 11th district. This is the same Dunlap who wrung from the widows, orphans, and other innocent victims their life savings and hard earnings. Is it any wonder that Dunlap now favors repeal of the National Securities Act, which protects investors? Had this act been in effect, perhaps Dunlap would be serving time for his fraud, treachery and misrepresentation of worthless stocks and bonds, instead of asking the people to elect him as their Representative in Congress."

WHAT OF COUNTRY?

"Thousands of innocent victims of the Dollings crash, in Pickaway-co and the 11th district, would be glad to have Mr. Dunlap, a vice president, general manager and special representative of the defunct Dollings Company, explain why he sold his name and prestige to unload gold bricks on the farmers, widows, orphans and business men of central Ohio and the 11th Congressional district. They would like to have him explain the lavish expenditure of money which is being made in an attempt to secure his election to Congress. Is this the same money that was wrung from the victims of the Dollings crash. I do not believe that the people of the 11th district want a financial buzzard or 'get rich' politician like Dunlap to represent them in Congress."

Underwood concluded by stating that the question before our people will not be simply the election of a Republican or Democrat; the only issue involved in this campaign will be the choice between the old order and the "New Deal." "I stand squarely for the 'New Deal,' Dunlap advocates going back to the old order and the old deal, which was a 'raw deal' for all our people."

Is This Too Good For Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

Navy Fights Plan On Selection of Dulles As Disarmament Adviser

WASHINGTON—A strenuous inter-government battle has been raging behind the scenes over the question of whether or not Allen W. Dulles shall go to London as disarmament adviser to Ambassador Norman Davis.

The State Department is for him, and the Navy Department against.

Dulles has been under heavy fire for some time. He was criticised for advising on war debts while he was—and still is—partner in Sullivan and Cromwell, prominent Wall Street law firm. And he was also attacked for lobbying on oil concessions with his former colleagues at the State Department.

However, Dulles' grandfather, John W. Foster and his uncle, the late Robert Lansing, both were Secretaries of State. So the State Department has stuck with him.

But the Navy Department has not. It has vigorous opposition to his going on naval affairs at London.

Bravery

General Lucius Roy Holbrook is disarmingly frank about his achievements in battle.

One day, according to his own story, he was shopping in a Paris department store. He had been typically American in his purchases, so much so that he merited the attention of the assistant manager. And as a favor to his American customer, the manager took him over to another aisle and introduced him to a distinguished visitor.

It was King Peter of Montenegro.

His Majesty liked General Holbrook, invited him to call at his apartment.

Almost immediately after his arrival next day King Peter reached into a trunk, fished around, pulled out a decoration, fastened it on his guest. Then as an afterthought, he asked:

"What did you say your rank was?"

"Brigadier General."

"Here, give me that back again. That isn't good enough for you."

So His Majesty went back to his trunk, pulled out another decoration. It was the "Silver Medal for Bravery and Cross of Prince Danilo."

General Holbrook has worn it proudly ever since.

Garrison Finish

How an Atlantic seaboard shipping strike was headed off by the secret efforts of a single man is one of the most interesting reports recently passing across the White House desk.

The man in question is Lloyd Garrison, retiring Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

Several weeks ago the International Seamen's Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, voted a walk-out on October 9, unless ship owners operating from Eastern and Gulf ports met their demands.

Chief of these demands—and the real cause of the uprising—was union recognition.

The situation looked bad. The steamship companies had resisted all attempts at unionization. The ISU has a large and militant membership, and a up of Atlantic ports seemed certain.

Into this unpromising crisis Roosevelt quietly thrust Lloyd Garrison.

He disappeared from his office. A week later, just as unobtrusively, he returned announced briefly there would be no strike.

The real story of brilliant achievement Garrison left untold. What he had done was this:

With the NLRB lacking jurisdiction—because the shipping industry is not under a code—Garrison went to the employers and seamen as a "private citizen." He offered his services as mediator and they accepted.

After a week of secret negotiations under his "unofficial" guidance, an agreement was reached giving the seamen a signal victory. Forty-eight steamship companies, operating 450 vessels, agreed to union recognition and collective bargaining.

EUROPE FEARS NEW UPRISING; SON, 11, RULES

Result of Alexander, Barthou Deaths Feared; Rioting Reported.

QUEEN IS STRICKEN

Trouble in Croatian Towns Ended, Report.

By International News Service

A fearful world today awaited the repercussions of Marseilles' Sarajevo, as France paid homage to the two European strong men assassinated on her soil—King Alexander of Yugoslavia and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou.

Grief-stricken, Alexander's consort, Queen Marie, reached his side as preparations were made to return his bullet-riddled body to Belgrade aboard a warship.

PETER LEAVES SCHOOL

Jugoslavia's new king, eleven-year-old Peter, eldest son of the slain monarch, left his school in the English countryside and prepared to return to his capital to rule under a regency provided in Alexander's will.

From Belgrade, London and Vienna came reports of disturbances in Yugoslavia. Troops were massed to prevent possible invasion and quell revolutionary outbreaks feared as a result of the death of the nation's king and dictator.

The situation in France itself was acute, with new rioting feared there. The government was gravely weakened by the loss of Barthou, outstanding apostle of peace in present-day Europe.

BELGRADE, Oct. 10.—A brief flurry of rioting in several Croatian towns which followed the brutal assassination of King Alexander quieted down today as the nation bowed by official edict to pay homage to its slain monarch.

At Zagreb, birthplace of Petrus Kalem, the assassin, and at Sarajevo, scene of the murders which precipitated the World war, students staged noisy demonstrations against the slayer and voiced their support of the government. The disorders, which were not considered dangerous because of their patriotic nature, were quickly subdued.

ITALY OBJECT

In various other towns, the rioting took the form of demonstrations against Italy, but consisted for the most part of noisy shouting. The government insisted that the nation as a whole was calm.

The government newspaper Pravda appeared this morning with a heavy black mourning border and appealed to all Yugoslavians, regardless of race, to stand solidly together as one nation in the crisis.

A period of six months national mourning was declared, and a special royal committee named to arrange for the slain monarch's funeral. Cannon salutes throughout the length and breadth of the kingdom informed the nation of the death late last night, and all business was suspended.

It was learned today that last May Thomas Kalem, brother of the assassin, was sentenced to a two-year penitentiary term for the murder of a Croatian minister named Neudorfer near Zagreb.

Petrus Kalem, the assassin, also was charged with complicity in the crime but was liberated.

RENICK NEW CHAMP

WALISA PAYS LIQUOR FINES

$150 On Each of Two Charges Paid By E. Ohio-St Man; Pays For Gilmore.

Roy Walisa, "E. Ohio-st." paid $450 and costs into the treasury Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to two charges of violation of Ohio liquor laws. Three hundred dollars was paid by Walisa, personally, on charges of possession and keeping a dwelling where liquor was kept for sale. The other $150 fine was paid for Albert Gilmore, employee of Walisa, who was charged with selling the fluid to state liquor agents who, with Deputy Bryan Custer, made the arrests.

A term of six months in the county jail for each was suspended.

Walisa paid the fine and costs by check and was released from custody. He had been free on bond since his arrest two weeks ago.

JONES PRESIDING

The hearing was conducted before Judge W. J. Jones, of Vinton common pleas court, who was sent here after Judge J. W. Adkins was removed on a prejudice affidavit.

Walisa and Gilmore were represented by Tom A. Renick and Sterling Lamb. They made fervent pleas for a low fine recalling that Walisa provides during the winter for a number of families in his section of the city. He buys coal and food for a number of persons, his attorneys said, and has never caused any officers of the law trouble. The attorneys called Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Bob Armstrong to the witness stand to testify that Walisa had never made them any trouble.

Three state agents testified concerning the possession of the liquor and the sale.

The penalty under the charges brought against Walisa could have been from $100 to $1,000 and days in jail on each.

MANY DELEGATES AT D. U. MEETING

One hundred and fifteen out-of-town members and delegates had registered by noon today at the annual convention of District No. 6 Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War and more were expected during the afternoon session.

The meeting is being held at the Memorial Hall with Catherine Wolfley Hedges acting as hostess.

Mrs. L. E. Miller, district president, is in charge.

Business was to be transacted and ritualistic work exemplified this afternoon.

A complete account of the convention will appear in Thursday's Herald.

FRIEDMAN TO OPEN LANCASTER STORE

Edgar H. Friedman, son of Mrs. Pauline Friedman, is preparing to open a new popular-priced dress shop in the Milthoff building, Lancaster.

He expects to open the store in about 10 days.

Mr. Adkins has announced a judicial committee of four Democratic attorneys to try to educate the public on the importance of the non-partisan judicial ticket. Former Judge E. A. Brown is chairman and the other members are C. A. Leist, Max C. Seyfert, Jr., and E. L. Crist. Judge Brown spoke briefly Tuesday evening on the judicial ticket.

An interested spectator on the speaker's platform was the wife of Common Pleas Judge Wilbur McKennie, of Ross-co.

Chairman Adkins almost committed a faux pas in forgetting to introduce Dr. C. E. Bowers, candidate for re-election as coroner. His attention was called to the mistake by A. L. Wilder, candidate for clerk.

Adkins called several persons to the platform including ex-Senator Beckett, of Scioto-twp; Nathan Bohnert, representative; Walter Marion, whom Bohnert defeated four years ago; Mary G. Morris, who is ending her regime as recorder, and John Fundas, prominent Greek organizer.

Invocation was given by Dr. G. J. Troutman, of Trinity Lutheran church, who urged that all aspiring candidates should be fully aware of their obligation to God.

Among the interested Republican spectators were Col. C. E. Groce, C. C. Chapplear, and C. E. "Scott" Roof.

Members of the Pickaway-co Democratic club acted as ushers with Joe Adkins, Jr., as the head usher.

Donahy, Dill and party arrived at just about 8 o'clock. The hall was filled when they arrived. Applause started on the platform where the visitors were first seen and the audience quickly took it up. With Donahy was his good-looking son-in-law, James W. Huffman. No less than four ladies asked the writer who the man sitting to Paul Adkins' right was. It was Huffman.

UNDERWOOD FLAYS DUNLAP FOR PEDDLING 'BAD' STOCK

Charges Opponent Was Vice President, General Manager, Special Representative of R. L. Dollings Co., Now Defunct; Introduced by Mader Who Urges Friends to Support Mell.

Mell G. Underwood, New Lexington, candidate of the Democratic party for re-election to congress, "hopped on" Renick W. Dunlap, Kingston, his G. O. P. "old guard" opponent, Tuesday evening with an address centered around Dunlap's activities with the now defunct R. L. Dollings Co., of Columbus, which "went up in smoke" with many thousands of dollars obtained mostly from farmers.

Underwood until this week had refrained from attacking his opponent from the rostrum but he asserted Tuesday that Dunlap had "opened the way" on Monday evening with a scathing attack on a New Lexington address. "Now I intend to have a few things to say," Underwood declared. Many of his followers have urged him to take the stump in the manner he followed last night.

INTRODUCED BY MADER

Mr. Underwood was introduced to the large audience at the Democratic meeting by John F. Mader, one of the four men he defeated for the nomination. It has been a long while since this writer has heard a more appropriate introduction than that of Mr. Mader, who said: "To be defeated by a man of Mr. Underwood's caliber is not a disgrace and I intend to (Continued on Page Six)

CORN AND HOG PLAN FAVORED BY 46 VOTES

Result of Referendum Surprising To Numerous Leaders of County.

QUESTION 2 BEATEN

Perry-Twp Was Last To Report Outcome.

Pickaway-co farmers favor continuation of the corn-hog reduction program by a margin of only 46 votes, it was learned today when all townships had reported the result of their referendums. The last was Perry-twp.

At noon today the farm bureau had recorded 530 votes, 289 of which favored continuation for another year, and 241 opposing it. On the second question, "Do you favor a one-contract per farm adjustment program dealing with grain and livestock to be in effect in 1936, the vote was 320 no, and 191 yes.

MANY PUZZLED

County political leaders were somewhat puzzled although many said the poll did not mean a thing as far as the New Deal's policies were concerned. The vote in 53 counties reporting to the state today was 11,461 yes on continuation, 8,036 no. The second question was beaten by 3,000 votes.

The ballots cast by farmers participating and not participating in the federal program totalled only about one-third of the corn-hog contracts signed in the county.

The balloting was conducted by the allotment committees in the various townships.

The vote by townships was:

BROWN MOTORCADE PLANNED IN COUNTY

Plans for a motorcade to travel to Chillicothe Tuesday evening to participate in the Republican rally at which Clarence J. Brown, candidate for governor, will be the principal speaker, have been announced by the Pickaway-co Republican committees.

A reception has been planned for Mr. and Mrs. Brown with Milton J. Scott in charge. The candidate's party will arrive in Chillicothe at about six o'clock from Gallipolis where Brown will address a gathering in the afternoon.

Delancy Fined $50; Bill Klem Fined, Too

DETROIT, Oct. 10. Umpire William J. Klem, of the National league, and catcher William Delancy, of the St. Louis Cardinals, were each fined $50 by Judge Keresaw M. Landis today for abusive language.

Klem drew his line for giving Leon (Goose) Goslin, Tiger left fielder, a tongue lashing in the lobby of the Book-Cadillac hotel here Monday night.

The $50 fine levied on Delancy was the outcome of a $200 fine "illegally" levied by Clarence (Brick) Owens, the Cardinal catcher.

DONAHEY, DILL THRILL DEMOCRATS IN RALLY; UNDERWOOD IS LAUDED

"Honest Vic" Tell Audience "Common Sense, Common Honesty Best Diplomacy, In Pledging Support to Farmer, Business Man and Laborer; Dill Recalls Fess' Vote on Major Issues

Cheers for the administration, jeers for the "revolutionary" cries of Dr. Simon Fess and his cohorts, and pleas for support of the entire Democratic ticket, state, national, district and county filled the air Tuesday evening when about 800 Democrats, with a sprinkling of Republicans, filled Memorial Hall for one of the finest party rallies held in this county in the last two years.

The occasion, of course, was the visit of A. Vic Donahy and Clarence C. Dill, one an aspiring senator, the other a retiring member of that august body. Others appeared on the program including Congressman Mell G. Underwood and Carl Smith, secretary to Governor White, who represented Martin L. Davey. Others on the speaker's platform were George G. Adkins, chairman of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee, who presided; members of ladies and men's county organizations, candidates for state and county offices, James W. Huffman, son-in-law of Donahy; former Senator Beckett of Commercial Point; John Fundas, who is organizing Greek Democratic clubs over Ohio; Earl Hanefeld, secretary of agriculture; John Harper, Democratic nominee for state treasurer two years ago, Mr. Thompson, who was conservation commissioner when Donahy was governor, and several others.

"TOOK" AUDIENCE

Donahy, seen for the first time by many Pickaway countians, really "took" his audience. He was applauded from the time he entered the hall until he left. Only one phrase is needed to describe "Honest Vic" Donahy; that is, "He speaks the language you and I understand."

Donahy started his address by endorsing the candidacy of Martin L. Davey for governor, the remainder of the state ticket, and he paid a great tribute to Congressman Underwood in urging the voters to send him back to congress. "I have confidence in Mell Underwood," Donahy said.

The speaker paid tribute to Senator Fess, his opponent, saying that he respected him very highly. "I just want you to compare the records of Fess and Donahy since 1912," he continued. "I have no promises in this campaign; my record as a representative of the people of Ohio is my platform."

"I believe in progressive principles. Just the other day an Ohio editor asked 'What does Donahy know about diplomacy and foreign affairs?' My answer is nothing, but I do know that the best diplomacy is common sense and common honesty. Then speaking of diplomacy if I had my way about it Europe would start right now to pay back those good American dollars she borrowed."

FOR COMMON PEOPLE

Donahy promised to "honestly" support President Roosevelt in every proper way. "I will support all proper legislation which will (Continued on Page Six)

NOAH LEIST, 73, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Former Resident of Walnut-Twp Succumbs Tuesday; Funeral Here Friday.

Noah Leist, aged 73, a resident of Walnut-twp until a year ago, died Tuesday at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus. He was a resident of 1118 E. Rich-st.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. at the Lutheran church here with Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating.

Mr. Leist is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Leist; five sons, Louis, Emmert and John of Columbus, Donald of Circleville, F. D. and Nelson of Cleveland; two brothers, Dr. Charles Leist and J. W. Leist, of Columbus, and two sisters, Miss Diana, of Columbus and Mrs. Charles Bartholmas, Pleasant-st., this city.

His latter says:

"On last Saturday we passed through your town and saw an immense crowd. Upon inquiry we were told it was your 'Pumpkin Carnival.' Please send me a paper on said carnival that I can put something about it and how you manage it."

Bricks from Buildings

On Post Office Corner Are Offered for Sale

An advertisement announcing the sale of brick is found in today's Herald inserted by Mr. Zeman, representative of the General Construction Co., which has charge of raising the present buildings then constructing the new post office building.

Ten war veterans are now being employed on the task of cleaning the bricks. They are said to be good as new. If the bricks can be sold, Mr. Zeman says, the work will continue; if not a steam shovel will probably be used to dump them.

22 MINERS KILLED

Deans to Capitalize on Fame Attained in Series

By PAT ROBISON.

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—The durable Deans—Dizzy and Daffy—who have dominated the series are just bubbling over with newly found ambitions. Let's tune in on them:

"Dizzy: 'Say, Paul, let's cash in on this.'"

"Daffy: 'Sure, I'm willing. How'll we do it?'"

"Dizzy: 'Well, we can play a few exhibition games. Then do some broadcasting. Them tobacco people ought to be willing to pay big dough to get us.'"

"Daffy: 'Swell. And how about the movies?'"

"Dizzy: 'Suits me, but I ain't so good looking. How about writing some?'"

GO "VODEVILLE"

Daffy: "Ah, you do that. How about vodelville?"

Dizzy: "Me for that. I bet the public would like to see us doing a brother act."

Daffy: "Why not? They have sister acts, don't they?"

Dizzy: "Sure and them dames ain't famous like us and they drag down plenty sugar every week."

Leo Durocher: "Say, lay off, you guys. You make me nervous talking about all that dough. You talk as if you were going to start a bank."

Frankie Frisch, entering: "Great pitching, Diz, old kid."

Dizzy: "Hell, it was just a breeze against those birds. They wouldn't have won a game. We got lots of clubs in our league better than them."

Daffy: "You said it. That White's just a base on balls hitter."

Dizzy, thoughtfully: "That Gehring's pretty good."

Daffy: "And Goshlin ain't bad."

Dizzy: "Yeh, say, did you see that big Greenberg? Did he look funny when I fanned him? I had to laugh."

Joe Medwick: "Not so easy for me to laugh though when those nutty fans started heaving things."

"Riot" Principals

Marvin Owen

Joe Medwick

Joe Medwick, chased from the game by Commissioner Landis, and Marvin Owen, third sacker of the Tigers, were involved in the most serious fracas to occur at a series game for many years. Fans in the left field stands prevented Medwick from taking his place by throwing a barrage of fruit and bottles onto the field.

my way. I guess all those guys must have brought their lunch to the bleachers. They threw bottles, oranges, apples, bags of peanuts and one guy tosses a hard boiled egg."

Dizzy: "And they call me Dizzy?"

MEDWICK LAMENTS

Medwick: "That guy Owens steps on my foot and there's no play at the bag, so I think maybe the balls loose some place and he's trying to pin me on the ground, so I try to kick loose and hit him in the chest. Then the judge (Landis) gives me the gate."

(Everybody now shouting at the top of his voice. Backslapping and handshaking all over the place.)

And over in the other dressing room there sits a tired, worn, grieving, downcast, dejected, Mickey Cochran. Mickey who had gambled and lost. Mickey, who had played despite two deep gouges in his legs and a slashed knee-cap. Mickey who had played a psychological hunch in starting young Eldon Auker, only to see psychology and Auker both throw him down.

There sat Mickey with tears in his eyes, head sunk in his hands, beaten, downcast, dejected.

Had he anything to say? "What can I say?" he replied dispiritedly.

"We lost. Just say anything you like for me. Praise the Cards and Frisch and all that sort of thing. You know, the usual stuff."

Marvin Owen, the skinny third baseman who felt the weight of Medwick's foot, refused to discuss the incident. "It's all over now," he said. "No hard feelings."

The game old Goose Goslin, the sage of Salem, N. J., put the whole thing in a nutshell when he said: "It was just a case of too much Dean."

DAVIS INELIGIBLE

George Davis, regular left tackle, is ineligible to take part in the Grandview football game to be staged in that city Friday. It was learned today when grades were announced.

BIRDSCLINCH MINOR LEAGUE TITLE SERIES

Come From Behind To Defeat Toronto in Final of Nine-Game Series.

The Red Birds today had won their second consecutive little world's series championship by defeating Toronto's Maple Leafs, 13-8, in the ninth of a nine game series.

Toronto had evened the series at four-all in the afternoon behind Gene Seneff's splendid hurling by a 5-1 score.

The Birds overcame a lead gained off Ed Greer and Ed Heusser, another right hander, stopped the Canadians.

The Columbusites finished second to the Minneapolis Millers in the association scramble but defeated Donie Bush's team in the playoff for the championship. They then embarked against the Toronto team which won the International league playoff after finishing third in the season's play.

Red Birds who may have played their last game with the Columbus team were Lew Riggs, Charlie Wilson, Billy Myers, Bob Klingler, Gene Moore and Ken O'Dea.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a tick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, ensuring when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name: Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. 25¢ at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Laughing Around the World

With IRVIN S. COBB

An Unsettling Grief

By IRVIN S. COBB

IF YOU are a Gentile you may lay this story on the Jewish race. If you are Jewish you may, with equal right, say the principal character in it was a temperamental Christian. In the version I heard the hero of the tale was of the Jewish race and answered to the name of Louis.

Louis lost, by a sudden illness, his wife. The funeral was to take place before sundown of the date following the death. On the morning of this day a cousin of the deceased, arriving home after a journey, learned of the loss. At once he hurried to the house of mourning to comfort the bereft husband.

He entered by the crepe-hung front door. There was no one at the front of the house. The sympathetic relative passed on through. The dining-room was empty; the pantry likewise. But in the kitchen the caller found the head of the house. The appearance of the newcomer was in the nature of an interruption and a surprise as well. For, at the moment, the widower was engaged in hugging the hired girl.

"Louis!" exclaimed the shocked interloper. "For you I am ashamed. Here your poor wife, my cousin, she ain't buried yet and already you are acting like this!"

"Go away, Ike!" cried the widower wildly, "how do I know what I am doing in my grief?"

A STATEMENT To The Voters of The 11th District

My attention has been called to a speech made in Circleville last night by my opponent and as usual he failed to confine himself to the truth. He stated that his opponent was a member of President Hoover's cabinet. I am not surprised that he should make such a statement. He apparently was not in Washington during the Hoover administration long enough to find out who President Hoover's cabinet was. Any school boy knows that I was not a member of any President's cabinet.

He stated his opponent had said "he would blot out the New Deal if given the chance." This is an absolute falsehood. His opponent never said anything of the kind.

He further said that his opponent held the high positions of Vice President, Manager and Special Representative of a Securities Company which went bankrupt 15 or 20 years ago. That statement is also false and he must have known it when he uttered it.

It might be embarrassing to the Congressman from the 11th District, to ask him the question why, if he was so solicitous to protect the public against bad securities, he was not present at the time the Securities Act was passed and registered his vote for it?

He was absent on the consideration and passage of this important Act as well as many other important bills which were considered and passed in the last session of the Congress.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by an Englishman. Being in England, one naturally does run on to them now and again. It's a Golf Story. It's a new Golf Story. At least it's not the one we have to listen to in America every day about the two fellows meeting and talking about what they were talking in, and finally what they were talking about was the score for the first hole.

"A small white Golf Ball rolled over the green, and was promptly picked up by Fido, the old Lady's pet dog. The next moment the Golfer came over the edge of the hill and began waving his arms and shouting to the dog, 'Put it down, Fido! Here comes the Gentlemen and he will knock it for you again!'"

SOCIETY

WASHINGTON P. T. A. MEETS;
PLANS CARNIVAL OCT. 19

About eighty members and visitors of the Washington-twp Parent-Teachers association gathered at the Washington-twp school, Tuesday evening, for the organization's monthly meeting at which time plans for a Halloween carnival, Oct. 19, were made.

Mrs. Cliff Reichelderfer, president, presided at the business session and appointed the following chairmen and committees in charge of the carnival:

Mrs. Harry Rife and Miss Mary Rader, fortune telling; Miss Selena Adams, Miss Ruth Delong, fish pond; Wendell Boyer, bingo; Harry Rife, guessing contests; Loren Strait, shooting gallery; Carl Bennett, stunts and masquerade, prizes in the latter will be given the prettiest costume and best character, both children and adults. Refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. D. A. Marshall.

There will also be a fancy work, cookie and apple display in charge of Misses Edith Spangler and Nellie Kuhn. Ribbons will be given the best crocheted and embroidered pillow cases, cushion tops, aprons, vanity and buffet sets, scarfs and hand towels; for plain, filled, oatmeal and nut cookies.

The program at last night's meeting was in charge of the teachers, under the chairmanship of Wendell Boyer, and consisted of the following:

Numbers by a toy orchestra including first, second and third grades; harmonica duet by the Richard twins; contests in charge of Misses Edith Spangler and Nellie Kuhn; talk by Marion Sennebrenner; trio, Eileen Brown, Evelyn Richard and Margaret List; piano solo by Miss Selena Adams.

Refreshments were served under the chairmanship of Mrs. D. A. Marshall.

WESTMINSTER BIBLE CLASS
MEETS AT HASWELL HOME

The October meeting of the Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Edith Haswell, Watt-st.

Assisting hostesses were Miss Ethel Kiger and Mrs. Donald H. Watt. About twenty members enjoyed the evening.

Miss Florence Dunton, president, presided during the business transactions. Plans were made for the part the Bible class would take in the Loyalty campaign being sponsored by the church.

The program included interesting contests in charge of Mrs. Watt and a short story from the American magazine read by Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier, class teacher.

Delectable refreshments were served during a social hour by the hostesses.

Mrs. Charles Smith was appointed chairman of the hostess committee for the November meeting.

Questions and Answers

Please suggest a list of dishes using milk and eggs. I have them available and would like some ideas.

A good recipe book should be a source of great interest for you, because of the recipe suggestions that it will offer. The general uses of milk and eggs may be listed thus: in cakes and cake frostings, in salads, sauces, and salad dressings, in hot or chilled beverages and in baked foods such as muffins, waffles, and the like. If you are interested in recipes for main dishes, send in your question again and you will receive a personal reply.

What is the chief value of bran?

Bran is the coarse outer portions of cereals and supplies roughage in the diet. Cereal bran, especially whole grain cereal, affords fuel value, minerals, vitamin B and cellulose.

Can the same syrup be used for spicing pears as is used for making sweet pickled peaches?

Pears and peaches may be pickled in the vinegar syrup. A ginger syrup for peaches is not favored because the flavors do not blend well enough, but with the pears, the ginger is very well liked as an addition to the vinegar syrup.

What type of diet is recommended for weight reduction?

As a rule a low fat and carbohydrate diet is recommended to reduce weight. A person who is very much overweight should reduce only on the advice of a physician. First find out what the normal weight for your height, sex, and occupation should be, then find out what number of calories are normally needed to maintain that weight. The food intake must be reduced below the daily calorie requirement for the desired weight. Loss of weight of more than 2 pounds a week is not advisable.

A New Cake For Harvest Time

A new spice cake made with pumpkin has a delicious moist crumb that will delight you.

1 C. butter 1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 egg 2 tsp. cinnamon
1 pumpkin 1 tsp. cloves
(canned) 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 C. evaporated milk 1/2 C. chopped nuts
2 C. cake flour 1/2 C. raisins

Cream butter and gradually add sugar. Add egg and pumpkin, and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together. Add alternately with milk to first mixture, and fold in nuts and raisins. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven. Frost with a sea mamm frosting. In one large loaf, the cake will require 50 minutes at 375 degrees for baking.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS
WITH MRS. GIVEN

Members of her two table bridge club were guests of Mrs. Bishop Given, S. Court-st., Tuesday evening.

At the conclusion of the contract game a delicious lunch was served at the small tables. Miss Helen Hitler was awarded high score trophy in the game.

Miss Hitler will be hostess to the club next week at her home on W. Mound-st.

YO YO SEWING CLUB
ENTERTAINED TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon members of the Yo Yo sewing club were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Effie Albright, Watt-st.

Lunch was served at the close of the happy hours spent in sewing. Mrs. Leona Hedges, of Tarlton, a sister of the hostess, was a guest of the club.

Mrs. Jennie Steele, S. Court-st., will entertain the club in two weeks.

Robert E. Norris, Circleville-twp., left Tuesday for Adrian, Mich., where he will visit his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Boardman. He will also visit in Detroit and at the Century of Progress in Chicago before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grand-Girard and children, Stanley Jr., Marjorie and Joan, of Sharon, Pa., have returned to their home after a visit with the former's father, George F. Grand-Girard, and aunt, Miss Kate Grand-Girard, N. Washington-st.

Joe Norris, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Norris, Washington-twp., is recovering after an appendicitis operation, Saturday, at St. Francis hospital, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Wray Henry, N. Court-st., left Tuesday for Sterling, Kansas. They were called to the home of Mr. Henry's mother, Mrs. Mary Henry, who was seriously hurt, recently, when she fell.

Tiny

The smallest bird in the world is the Calypso's hummingbird, found only in Cuba. It is less than two inches from end of beak to the tip of its tail, and it is so light it can hardly be felt when held on the hand. In fact, the hummingbird-moth we see around flowers in the evening is larger and heavier than this bird.

SUSPECTS TRIP TO JERSEY IS NEARING

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Lindbergh kidnaping case the most publicized crime in American criminal history moved rapidly toward a denouement today.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York in all probability will sign the extradition papers some time today which will enable the state of New Jersey to put Bruno Richard Hauptmann, sullen Bronx carpenter, on trial for the murder of the famous aviator's infant son.

SCHEDULED TO RETURN to his desk in the executive mansion at Albany before noon, the governor had a bulky portfolio of official extradition papers to look through before taking the action which many believe will start Hauptmann on the way to the electric chair.

SIGNED BY MOORE

The document of greatest importance—the requisition—was signed by Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey.

While it is possible that Governor Lehman may decide to grant a hearing in the case, which might delay matters for several days—the fact remained that no such hearing has as yet been asked by Hauptmann's counsel.

Moreover it was not at all certain that any such request would be made. The suspect's attorney, James M. Fawcett, was asked by International News Service whether he intended to get in touch with Governor Lehman. Fawcett replied:

"I don't know whether that's necessary."

Fawcett displayed only mild interest when he was advised that Governor Lehman had taken the extradition papers to Albany.

In spite of this it was evident the prisoner's counsel planned to

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

ACTORS have a great life. Some of the best of it comes in talking it all over together. These folks have ups and downs about as much as any people in the world, I reckon, but they hardly ever cry about it. One of them maybe has his name in big lights this week, and next month he's imitating a thunderstorm off in the wings somewhere.

He gets just as much fun out of talking it over as he ever did, though.

Two actors were talking, in a little restaurant in New York, about this year's shows and last year's shows. They found out that it was awful hard to remember what the shows of last year were. Even an actor forgets them that quick.

"Well," said one of them, "what I'm talking about is the show last year that didn't have any bed in it. You remember—"

"No," says the other one, "I don't think I do. No bed in it. That must have been the Miracle!"

benefit the farmer, business man or laborer," he stated.

The speaker then went on to score what he called the nation's "Frankenstein" taxation system where everything except the air and water are taxed. He favored a graduated income tax based upon ability to pay.

"If you elect me to the United States senate I will be as free as the four winds that blow. No politician, no private interest owns a hair of my head. I will use my vote and my voice on the floor of the senate to fight all graft, greed and incompetency in government," he said in closing.

Senator Dill, who retires this year after serving 20 years in the national house and senate from Republican Washington, told his listeners after his introduction that his address was the first one he had made on politics in Ohio in 28 years when he stumped while at Ohio Wesleyan for Governor Patterson. Dill is a native of Knox, Ohio, where his parents still reside.

"I came here tonight to satisfy a desire of mine; to find out why the people of Ohio so love Vic Donahey," he asserted in opening his talk. "I have learned that answer. I've always been taught that no man is famous until he is called by his constituents by his first name. You people call Donahey by two first names. One of them, 'Vic,' his mother gave him; the addition, 'Honest,' you people gave him for the splendid work he has done for Ohio."

TRIBUTE TO UNDERWOOD

"I, too, want to pay tribute to Mel Underwood, who is one of the standbys of the administration in the house of representatives. He has gained prestige in the house where he is regarded as a seasoned congressman. There is a saying that if a man gets into congress once it might have been luck that put him there, but if he goes back the second time it is not luck but ability that put him there. I urge you to send Mel Underwood back to congress," he said. "Mel is on the side of the president and the people and you can't afford to quit on a man when he is in the middle of his work as you would be doing to President Roosevelt if you sent Underwood's opponent to congress."

Dill implored his listeners to avoid a stalemate which would exist for at least two years if a hostile congress replaced the present one. "President Roosevelt has work to do and unless you give him a favorable congress all his efforts to go somewhere would go for naught."

"I went over to Mount Vernon Monday evening," Senator Dill went on, "to hear Fess and to learn what he is advocating. There was only one word he used averaging in an effort to throw fear into the hearts of his audience and that was 'revolution'. He's right there was a revolution but it was back in 1932 and it was a revolution of ballots had not taken place then there might have been a revolution of bullets."

"REVOLUTIONS, SURE"

"Too, there was a revolution in the banking industry and was it needed—There is a revolution going on in the stock exchange where regulation of the wildcat gambling is not being attempted, there is a revolution going on in farming with prices paid to farmers going up to a living price. Surely we are going forward."

Senator Dill next delved into the record of Dr. Fess, whom he termed one of the original "brain trusters" naming Dr. Andy Mellon as the other although they were called "better minds" at that time.

Going into the congressional record he found that Fess had voted "no" on all of the following important measures:

Public works, passed 55-17.

Farm relief, passed 64-39.

Gold embargo, passed 48-20.

Home loan act, passed 48-21.

Silver purchase, passed 64-25.

Once you have gone through the NEW MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK, line by line, sketches and text, there will be no more guessing about the new styles, you will KNOW. There they are . . . in a collection of skillfully designed patterns for maid, matron and little child . . . patterns that you can make yourself without difficulty even if you have never made a garment before. And there are other things in this surprising book of ours . . . articles about corsets, the new fabrics, how to shop, etc. See today's pattern feature for ordering instructions.

Securities act, passed 65-13.

Muskie Shoals bill to permit the government to set up a system of distribution of power from this plant to consumers in the south, passed 68-20. Dill was on a favorite subject discussing power rates and the asserted "Power Trust" away from which Roosevelt is taking the nation, according to his statement. "I'd love to make a speech on electricity," Dill said. "Out in our state we are gradually pulling out of the clutches of the 'power trust' and we are going to be able to heat our homes for $100 a year. This is one of President Roosevelt's accomplishments."

"WHAT OF DONAHEY?"

He asked "How would Vic Donahey have voted on these issues?"

"We need people in Washington who will represent the people who send them there rather than the people they meet after they arrived there," he said.

Music for the evening was provided by the high school band which played in the uptown streets prior to the meeting. The audience led by Carl C. Leist with Mrs. Ervin Leist at the piano sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

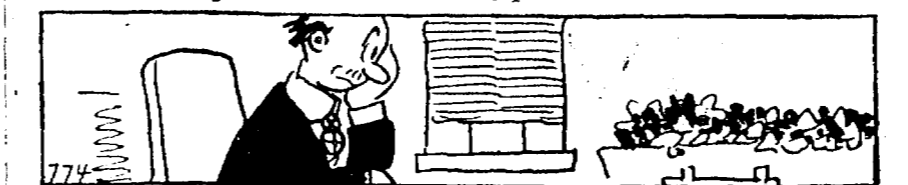

Laughing Around the World

With IRVIN S. COBB

A Growing Suspicion

By IRVIN S. COBB

FOR years Mrs. Grauman, wife of a wealthy retired shirt-waist manufacturer, had been ailing. Or anyhow, she thought she was ailing. She tried one specialist after another, patronized a succession of santariums, took the cure here, there and elsewhere. Yet nothing seemed to help her. She remained a chronic complainer.

The husband's patience sorely was tested. Also there was a constant drain upon his checkbook. Mr. Grauman didn't mind the latter so much. Always he had been a generous provider for his family. What secretly irked him was a conviction that the lady's trouble was more or less imaginary; an unspoken but none-the-less sincere belief that his money was being spent to gratify a neurotic's whim. Had Mr. Grauman known the words "malingerer" and "hypochondriac" these undoubtedly were the words he would have applied to his own private diagnosis of the case.

Nevertheless, the invalid, after long months of treatment, succumbed to her mysterious malady. She became no more.

On the night before the funeral the mourning widower sat alone by the bier. For long hours he communed with himself. Finally he reached forth a caressing hand and softly patted the casket.

"Well," he said, "maybe Mommer was sick!"

support him and I want every one of my friends to do the same." His introduction brought resounding applause from the audience.

Underwood charged that "Dunlap, formerly a vice president, general manager and special representative of the Hollings Company was a peddler of worthless stocks and bonds and is now pursuing the same unfair, malicious, and untruthful tactics that he followed as a promoter in an effort to deceive the people."

DELEGATES WELCOMED

The Chamber of Commerce issued a welcome today to delegates attending the Daughters of Union Veterans convention here.

Glowworm Called Anesthetic

The lowly glowworm is hailed as the first anesthetic. It paralyzes its victims by stinging them and if it does not devour them, they recover with no apparent ill effects, much the same as a human does from an anesthetic.

"Who is Dunlap?" asked Underwood. "The records in the Securities division of Ohio show that he was one of the financial buzzards and worthless stock racketeers who preyed upon innocent victims by selling them worthless stocks and securities in wild cat promotion schemes, that he knew were fakes."

"Today, we find 'Good Old Renick,' who made unholy profits and fat commissions as a 'Brain Trustee' for the Hollings Company, using the same tactics to sell himself to the voters of the 11th district. This is the same Dunlap who wrung from the widows, orphans, and other innocent victims their life savings and hard earnings. Is it any wonder that Dunlap now favors repeal of the National Securities Act, which protects investors? Had this act been in effect, perhaps Dunlap would be serving time for his fraud, treachery and misrepresentation of worthless stocks and bonds, instead of asking the people to elect him as their Representative in Congress."

WHAT OF COUNTY?

"Thousands of innocent victims of the Hollings crash in Piquette, Ohio and the 11th district, would be glad to have Mr. Dunlap, a vice president, general manager and special representative of the defunct Hollings Company, explain why he sold his name and prestige to unload gold bricks on the farmers, widows, orphans and business men of central Ohio and the 11th Congressional district. They would like to have him explain the lavish expenditure of money which is being made in an attempt to secure his election to Congress. Is this the same money that was wrung from the victims of the Hollings crash, I do not believe that the people of the 11th district want a financial buzzard or 'get rich' politician like Dunlap to represent them in Congress."

Is This Too Good For Your Cough?

Cremulium may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief for safety. Mild coughs often yield to looser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Cremulium for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are dangerous signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)
